It is, however, to be noticed that the like rumours first got about at Nankin, where placards similar to those at Tientsin were posted; but, through the good sense of Ma, who all along has shown a disposition to act in a friendly way towards foreigners, a rising was there averted. Not very long afterwards the Vicercy Ma is assassinated, it being reported in many directions, though in others it was denied, that his murder was planned and executed by the anti-foreign party. Takno, his rival and enemy, is now appointed to succeed him.

Such are the facts, which it must be confessed lend to very serious reflections. At time when it is above all things necessary to keep the people in Nankin in order, we fine appointed to that city the well known openiy of the Viceroy who has just been assas sipated, and the equally well known and bitter antagonist of foreigners. This does not seem to portend any great security for fo reigners in the Two Kiang, which are now again placed under Teene Kwo Fan's jurisdiction. It has become clear that there is a strong anti-foreign party at Nankin, and that they were only kept down by the action of Ma. - Will Tsend Kwo Fan, himself the leader of the hostile party, act with similar good faith and prudence? This is a question of vital importance with regard to the future state of affairs in the North. It is possible that the Pekin Authorities were glad to appoint him to Nankin to get rid of his obstructiveness in regard to the settlement of the Tientsin difficulty; but as it is not likely a man of Tunne's power would take an appointment not swited to his own views, it has also to be considered what motives the departure of the Missionaries wrote t influenced him in removing to Nankin the American Consul to deprecate their with-Has he any idea of reverting to the drawal. However this may be, it is certain that his advent will greatly strengthen the antiforeign party, and, if the general surmise that he was at the bottom of the Tientaindifficulty is correct, it will form a great enouragement-to-them-to-continue-fostering ill-feeling, inasmuch as they will doubtless believe that Thete Kwo Fan has fully succeeded in his designs in the North, seeing that he now returns with renewed strength to the seat of his former greatness.

No one in the present day denies the right for right it is, and not a privilege, although the words are frequently confounded.—to comment upon the public acts of a Minister, upon the public acts of a General, upon the public judgments of a Judge, upon the public shill of an Actor, or. The orther that he, the aforesaid Marchall, did un. | subscribing | on the contrary I think it would be very unfortunate were it otherwise, but ! onbacribe to it with thin qualification, that the comment must be fair and boucet - Unquestionably it is the right of every cas to animadvert in the severest terms upon the conduct of a Minister, who may for instance have negotiated a frenty which in the opinion of the writer multi-have an operation dimerentageous to the state; upon the conduct of a General in dommand of surrendered such fortress before the time when. in the opinion of the writer, it ought to have been surrendered impor the conduct of a Judge. who, in the opinion of the writer, may have delivered a judgment without regard to the sutherity of Courts of engal or superior jurisdiction to his own rupon the conduct of an actor who, in the opinion of the writer, may have taken upon limmelf to perform parts which his skill did not warrant; upon in a word, the conduct of my who had done an act to have invited ment, and in the exercise of that right, the law will always protect such person, provided only the comment be fair and honest. But if in the cases which I have put by way of example the Minister whose conduct is impagned had never negotiated a trenty at all, or, if he had negotiated one, and negotiated one the clauses of which were wholly at variance, with those surgested; if the general who is charged with baving prematurely surrendered a fortress, had perer bad that fortress under his command, or if so had never surrendered it; if the judge who upon principles unknown to the law had never spector Grimes that he had seen a drummer of delivered that judgment at all, or if so had commentator had sharged him with want of skill to perform, or hadander taken parts of an essentially different character, could it in any of argument of the defendant. The last case to these instances be said that the comment was fair and bonest ? Furely not So to contend would be to alter the meaning of the words "fair" and " honest." But wherein does the case before the court differ from the instances I bave put, I regret to say, so far as I can see, in no material particular. We are told that there was "an appeal" to the Police Court, such words being printed in large type. There was no such appeal. It is next stated that the men, who were fixed for having matcheds up in markets yesterday came back to spoce against the decision, stating as a reason for so doing that previous to receiving the police summons, they had been brought before the Registrar General, sho told them that if they took down the matavic fine would be imposed and they thought it very hard to be brought up twice for one offence. In this there is not in perticle of truth, The men, who were floed did nut come buck to appeal arrivet any decision fine imposed. They never said they were, nor the plaintiff. To this charge Mr. Toller in effect in fact were they, brought before the Registrar are imputed. The judgment therefore of the Chief Baron in Gathercole v. defendant, in in reality in favor of the plaintiff. The next case to which I was referred is the that of any other person of freely discussing the public acts of another. (2) That the bone belief of the writer that the imputations are well founded affords no defence to an action of libel. Another case which was pressed upon me was the dass of Parmiter v. It recognizes the right of a defendant and slanderous, the rase in no degree assists the which reference was made in the argument Walter, L. H. 4, Q.B. 73. It clearly establishes Poreign Consula. the right of publishing a faithful report in a public newspaper of a debate in either house of Parliament. The concluding observations in the luminous and elaborate judgment of the Lord Chief Justice of England are in point no far as the present case is concerned. I will be well to read them. Spenking of malico, His Lordship says, "The Jury annat; bu entiafied that the article was an honest and fair comment on the facts-in other words that, in the first place; they must be estisfied that the comments had been made with in bonest belief in their justice, but that this was not enough, incomuch us such belief might originate in the blindness of party seal and to condemn the conduct or motives of another, must bring to the task, not only an honest sense of justice, but also a reasonable degree of judgment and moderation; so that the result may be what a jury shall deem; under the circumstances of the case, a fair and legi timate criticism on the conduct and motives of the party who is the object of censure. Considering the direction thus given to have been perfectly correct, we are of opinion that it respect of the alleged misdirection as also on th former point, the ruling at new price was right, and that consequently this rule must be discharged. The only remaining question is the question of damages. Now damages are of three kinds. First, nominal damages, which occur in cases where the judge is bound to give such, as for

has risen since the contract was made. The second kind are general dumages, and are muc as are given when there is no other measure by which they are to be assessed than the opinion and judgment of a ressonable man. THE DECLINE IN THE POWER OF NAVIES. (Economist, August 13th)

This war has reveyled, on rather has hinted he revelation of a fact of immance importance to maritime States, namely, a diminution in their power of effective attack. This diminution were, necidental way, without any direct decrease in the strength of navies, and merely through a change in the first conditions of the art of war. Nations have become armed, and armed nations cannot, in the existing condition, of naval arm ments, be conveyed by sea. France, for example, is a very strong maritime Power possesses the second war navy in Europe, and has wealth sufficient to scoure any reasonable numbers of transports. This navy is very well fitted, very well manned, in complete readiness, and altogether so strong as to be formidable even to Great Britain, and decidedly superior to any other may now existing in Europe. Nothing whatever has occurred to raise any suspicion of its efficiency, onterprise, or peculiarity of geographical postthe enginy has a long sea coust offering many purts for attack and many points at which contest is comparatively small-is, confined, fact, to its power of impeding trade, of frightening one or two considerable towns on the const. and of inflicting a certain humiliation upon the with Chinese soldiers. The fort is near the German navy. COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE. HONGKONG, SEPT. 20TH. EVENING. There has been, with the clearing up of the weather, a little better feeling in the drug market for Patna from Chinese quarters, sales; of which have been effected on credit terms at $5531 to $553, against these, the circulators of bargain chops and gamblers were quitting it at $5424 to $545. The value of this drug being much below the price of the paid up carneel money of $5 to $15 a sheet, that the bolders of bargain chops or scrips, preferred forfeiting the moneys to demanding the opium. The sellers who had made purchases at high rates, such as $565 to $582; a chest, to cover their sorips, found themselves in a trap, and with the near approach of the termination of the time bargain operations, due on the 23rd instant, became over anxious. Having no other alternative left to themselves, they are necessitated to press sales at much under the actual market value. This is another and a complete illus-tration of the perfect rottennes of the bargain chop system, which some of the broken it appears make a business of every day for themselves, to the great injury of the legiti-mate traders. It would be nothing but proper that all such brokers ought never to be encouraged by any merchant. The following may be taken as the ruling prices :- Patna, $5529 to $555, from Importers; Paina, $5424 to $545, from the Gamblers, on time, dus 23rd instant; Patna, on three weeks time 9th bales to arrive at $5471 to $550, quoted; Benearce, $5174 to $520, quoted; Malwa, bas been in fair demand at $575, for only first quality drug, at which sales have been reported on each terms to foreigners.

PORT 2 Co. NOW BEADT IMPERIAL QUARTO: ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN

PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionant, by the Rev. W. LOBSCHEID, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

CR scope and practical service this Work market partialled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations had imposed upon them, are bere given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Ponti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of hody, thereby effecting a year economy of space, achieving a clearness not proviously attained, and dispensing with those wast margins and vanish spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. The scope of the work is so great, and its utilitarian purposes so complete, that a roference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chineso. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully, with which very few in-dred of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally. It comprises upwards of two thousand large

Jupan and Anabaria. (Examiner - Combluded) From Saghaleen our author sailed to Hakodudi, in Yesso, and was much pleased with his first view of Japanese soonery and manners. The town is prettily situated at the foot of a The vegetation of Yesso is very similar to that and of Manchuria, and many of the plants and flowers remind us of our home in the western seas The homely damblion is here, with its intillar jurged leaves, and the modest lily of the valley grows in profusion while in

"On entering the town the impression produced is equally agreeable, the quiet and order which everywhere prevail contrasting so remarkably, with the noise, dirt; and confusion of Chinese gities There is bere no tutnult in the streets; but the craftsmen are busy in their shops and even the children are domine and well with gloomy forebodings of the future use behaved, no unruly archine throwing dirt at the Burston's Sansaraniala, stranger as be passes. The very dogs bave a sort of canine; politeness, and disdain to snarl and bark at the wanderer from distant climes who has landed on their shore. The streets. are wide, well watered, and bounded by rows of unpainted houses consisting of one story, anch effering on the roof the somewhat, remarkable -use at once and freely Baiston's Sansay spectacle of a tub of water, and a broom,

It was ornamented with numerous strange devices, among which were maint dragons and huge stong tortoises. While I was having abstractedly at these unguinly figures, a burst of saulight streaming though a little window in the roof covered the gilded PARILLA. the same time the figure of a female devotes the central avenue is ornamented with grand will amonolithe sacred to the dead. Not the least remarkable objects are the ancient soulptured rock-masses covered with inscriptions. As I was examining them, the solemn tones of in a corner of the sacred grove filled me with a feeling of awe which I could easily account for." During Mr. Adams's stay at Hakodadi be large, dipily lighted, and burn-like house, with a soumy elevated stage, but with no scenery or

In Japan one play frequently insta several days, and several plays go on in thus be greatly hastened. rotation, thus allowing the spectator of any particular play to leave his place for refresh-"ment. Smoking goes on during the performance, and little cups of saki are handed round amid general hilarity. The play which Mr. Adams witnessed was what we should call highly sensational - a boy being mardered before the eyes of the audience: "the blood flowing freely from a - pig's bladder, inid artfully from view." The acting of this child our author describes as perfectly murvellous.

Among the natural wonders of Japan are the gigantic oysters, the number and eize of which are astonishing. Mr. Adams found one, the ficab of which alone weighed twelve ounces. The rocks of this island also bound in largesared sea-bares and delicately tinted sea sloge, It may interest entomologists to learn that our author captured a Damaster-Fortune's beetle -on the shores of the little island of Tabu Sims, not far from Niphon. Mr. Adams does not forget to remind us that " the Japanese are will, with a pigeon all white with a black head and wings, or all black with a white head and

At Tomo, a large town famous for its eak distilleries, our author had an opportunity of studying the toilet and dress of Japanese ludies : "In the seclusion of her scrupulously clean but simply furnished spartment sits the Niphon belle, in that attitude peculiar to all classes in Japan, her legs bent under her, and the palms a medicine-perfectly and for the weakest and of her hands resting on her knees. One of her attendants kneels behind her, and combs her ong hair from her forehead, and arranges it in heavy coils upon the top of her head. Her ample outer garment has loose hanging sleeves, her under robe is a very narrow skirt. These two vestments are fastened with a wide sash of most voluminous proportions, which is tied behind in a buge knot. In the ten-gardens this is a very becoming feature in the pretty waitresses who, hending one knee, offer you ten and sweetments on a lacquered truy. Unlike the small vials as perfumes for the handkerchief, Land of the Rising Sun wears no spacious pantaloons, and her feet are bare.
